Subject:Intel Update on LMD Border Protests

For "E" SMT SA not for dissemination to outside agencies please. I will send this out in a different summary update later tonight to our PoJ partners and Province through CIRG

Today DLT engaged with CBSA, the 176 St Protesters and Organisers for tomorrow Convoys

This information was gleaned by a very senior DLT that is well trained and experienced in police liaison and protester interactions. This is important because they know about protest leader types and how to deal with groups and individuals. While any protest can be usurped by fringe elements if not handled correctly, the DLT are trained on techniques on how to "turn" protest away from those elements

CBSA

- 400-900 heavy trucks typical for Saturday. However; noted today (only 1 vehicle on camera which is extraordinary as today is typically busier than Saturdays). CBSA believes truckers from both sides are aware of potential issues and avoiding this port of entry
- CBSA prepared to use alternate port of entry for commercial vehicles in event of blockade
- Langley Detachment aware of potential of blockade moving to Aldergrove if 176 is blocked. Langley has a contingency to take conduct at their crossing should event occur at Aldergrove port of entry.

176 street /8th ave protest group

- Has been pro police for several days. All persons attending are advised to support police
- No one wearing masks, not on the road and they are occupying centre median if not on side of road
- Some pot smelled, but no one drinking alcohol observed
- They have good infrastructure in place such as: First aid site and procedures, signs out to not honk in residential area and signs out to not park in mall parking lot

Meeting with [Personal Info.] and Learned The Following:

- Convoy Departing Chilliwack via Lickman Rd @ 1000hrs. He is not sure if will be a slow roll, or going with flow of traffic.
- They have hired a flagging company to assist with movements and safety
- Anticipate the Chilliwack convoy will be at Colossus Theatre in Langley 1100-1130 hrs to meet with protesters there.

- Word is spreading rapidly amongst groups, but he anticipates similar size crowd at last week, or perhaps even less
- Will meet DLT at Colossus at 1000 hrs and introduce them to the other organizers
- Peaceful demonstration is what is the theme for organizers
- Recognizes being outside of law is what will bring disrepute to the demonstration
